STATE EDITORS MET AT EVERETT

Two Hundred Country Pen Pushers
Had Time of Their Lives in City of Smokestacks.

Never in the history of the Washington State Press Association have the visitors been given such a royal welcome and so varied and elaborate entertainment as was afforded them at Everett on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. The enterprising citizens of that wide-awake metropolis of Snohomish county had raised $3,000 to expend in the entertainment of their guests, and this, added to at least $300,000 worth of hospitality and good will, was so judiciously expended that it has purchased the admiration and hearty praise of all who were so fortunate as to attend. The editors of Washington join in taking off their hats to the people of Everett as the past masters in the art of entertainment.

As the daily press of last week gave the details of the doings of the association, it is needless to repeat them at this time. The visit was a revelation to the visitors, few of them realizing what tremendous strides Everett has made in the last few years.

EVERETT.

Among the principal cities of the State of Washington, Everett is much the youngest—founded in the 90's. While there still are some cities in the state with more population, there are none with a population more prosperous. Everett has:

An employed, prosperous, and contented population of more than 26,000. The only natural fresh water harbor on the coast.

Great Northern freight terminals, ocean docks, warehouses and car shops.

A smelter, paper mill, flour mill, lumber mills, shingle mills, and other mills, to the number of several dozen, and some thousands of acres of unequalled sites, and cheap sites, for more mills.

The best log market on Puget Sound.

The best roads through the largest body of agriculture lands in Western Washington.

A horticulture industry second in the state.

A dairy product third in the state. A rich and rapidly developing mineral resource.

A strategic location, unsurpassed in natural advantages, sanitary features, and scenic beauty.

Numerous strong and conservative financial institutions.

Ample, modern and model educational institutions.

Lots of pure water, lights to burn, and transportation facilities that facilitate. Up-to-date and down to business public utilities.

Everett employs 3,500 men and disburses a monthly pay-roll of a quarter million dollars, in her industrial plants alone.

Population in 1900, 7,838; in 1905, 23,000; in 1907, by careful school and directory census, 26,930.

School children enrolled—In 1900, 1,520; in 1906, 3,425; in 1907, 4,468.

Postal receipts, fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, $121,133; year ending June 30, 1906, $31,150; year ending June 30, 1907, $38,984.

That Watch Contest.

The Sun's watch contest, which terminated some time ago, resulted in a victory for Miss Bessie Gilbert of Kirkland, who received 15,000 votes in subscriptions, besides a large number of coupons. Miss Gilbert is a regular whirlwind when it comes to soliciting, and wherever she attempted to land a subscription she succeeded. She well deserved the watch and pin which she received at the close of the contest.

The winner of the second prize was Miss Hazel Smith, of Redmond, who received 5,000 votes. By her own choice she received 20 per cent of the money she collected.

Owing to the fact that the manager of this contest was very busy with other affairs and hence could not give it proper attention it was not such a success as it might have been. We hope to have another later on which will be more exciting.

New Butchers Doing Well.

Lampaert & Van Overschelde, the butchers who have recently taken charge of the Redmond meat market, are men of experience in their line. They know how to buy and how to cut. Their market is always neat and clean, and they are making friends rapidly. Those who have been buying their meat at other places should try their home market again. They will surely be satisfied.

A Bakery for Kirkland.

Mr. G. N. White, who, with his family, has recently moved to Kirkland and is occupying the brick building adjoining the Hotel Jackson, is soon to open a bakery in the room now occupied by the Sun. The Sun will not move, but will slide its goods and chattels to the rear of the building, where there is plenty of room for it. Mr. White and his partner, Mr. McGowan, have a large bakery at 2735 Madison street, the other side of the long bridge, which is known as the California bakery. They will bring their bread and pastry from there every day.

Kirkland badly needs a bakery and the new institution should pay well. The Sun wishes them the best of success.

JUANITA ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. Syvert Josten chaperoned the following young people on the excursion to Fortuna Park Saturday evening: Rosa Josten, Belle Hammer, Effie Borgeson, Ruth Ide, Frank Morgan, Leslie Forbes, Abel Borgeson, Hans Hammer and Charlie Maxwell. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langdon, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Slaven, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Simmons, Miss Christine Johnson, Miss Judith Thorndahl, Miss Mollie Blakelin, Mr. Lon Langdon, Mr. Olaf Josten, Mr. Aken Thorndahl, Mr. Harry Newkirk and Mr. Geo. Nelson enjoyed the potato bake on the lake shore Saturday evening, with watermelon for desert.

G. H. Calligan is hauling logs to the lake again.

On account of illness, Rev. G. A. Yorl was unable to preach Sunday morning. Next Sunday morning he will preach on "The Golden Calf." Come and have your idols shattered, or if you have none, come and hear him smash your neighbor's idols.

Jesse Beeman says he does not mind the walk to Kirkland. "Where his treasures are there shall he be also."

Fred Berg went to Redmond Saturday night—who said she lives at Redmond?

Earl Voris spent Sunday in Bothell. Mrs. John Beeman has been confined to her home the last few days through illness.

Did you see the eclipse of the moon Wednesday night?

Mr. Cross is able to be out again after being eight weeks with rheumatism.

Dressed up in his best, Siveret Jostine walked over to Kirkland to catch a boat for Seattle Wednesday afternoon.

Porter Langdon was shopping at the Bon Marche last Friday.

Quite a number attended the dance at Mercer Island Saturday night.

If anybody wants any cats just call on or 'phone Minnie Langdon—she is making special sale now for one week.

Webb Langdon has a house on his ranch now. It would make a fine home for some worthy young lady, and we fear that if some of them don't land soon he will order a wife from Sears & Roebuck.

O. J. Davidson's brother, Adoff, who has been visiting for the past few weeks, returned to his home at Kingsbury, Cal., Saturday.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at brother Will Simmons' Thursday of this week. All the pretty girls are cordially invited.

Live Oak Camp No. 3932 of Juanita R. N. of A. are cordially invited to attend a basket picnic given by Seattle Camp at Woodland Park, Seattle, August 14 (Wednesday).

REDMOND

Happenings of a Week in This Busy Burg, as Seen by the Sun

Redmond is very quiet on Sundays now. We understand that the baseball team has disbanded for the season.

The new stage automobile seems to be hoodooed. So far it has been in the repair shop most of the time. We hope to see it doing things in the near future.

A. L. Parks has been on the sick list part of the past week.

H. A. Templeton and family are taking an outing at Bellingham and Lake Whatcom.

W. L. Weppler's smiling face was seen in our midst last Sunday.

The professor is working at his old trade again, drinking soda water and peddling hot air.

Theo. Youngerman made a business trip to Seattle Monday.

McFarlane & Smith have sold their butcher business to Messrs. Lampaert & Overschelde, of Seattle, who will run an up-to-date meat market in every respect.

C. W. Huffman and family made a trip to Bothell Sunday.

After dark last Saturday evening we noticed our neighbor W. E. Sikes carrying two pullets under his arm. Where he got them we do not know, but it might be timely to guard the chicken roosts.

There was to be a team pulling match last Sunday between Stark Baker's and J. C. Burbee's teams for $100 a side, but owing to Burbee's nonappearance the match did not come off.

J. F. Hobblek will soon build a new house on the property he recently bought of Wm. Sprague.

J. F. Weber spent Sunday in Redmond.

Mrs. E. Adams, Miss Mabel Adams, Mr. and Mrs. C. Norman, Stanley Norman and Mrs. W. B. Williams left for Soap Lake Tuesday morning. They will camp there for several weeks. Mrs. Adams' health has been poor for some time and all of her friends hope she will be materially benefited by the medical values of the lake.

Some of the Redmondites are complaining about the hot weather. We hope they will never find any warmer territory than Redmond is.

Squak Slough is now cleared of logs all the way to Lake Washington and launches can pass from there through to Lake Summamish with nothing to hinder but an occasional sand-bar.

Wm. Underhill made a trip to Seattle last week.

At a meeting held recently at the Perrigo Tabernacle, the national board of trustees unanimously chose our illustrious townsmen, Messrs. E. Adams and W. Brown, to have exclusive charge of the extensive lighting apparatus for the ensuing term. These gentlemen were chosen as a signal mark of their long and faithful connection with church work and their general pious demeanor.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brown attended the basket social and dance at Maltby last Saturday evening.

Wm. Brown, T. J. Kleffer and C. F.

Story took in the excursion to Fortuna Park on Saturday evening.

Master Leo B. Reed is spending the week with his auntie, Mrs. Calkins, at Woodinville.

The big business man with a cognomen that smacks strongly of fishing tackle, is making a strong bid for the important office of dog catcher. He has been very successful of late in enticing innocent, unsuspecting canines into his shop and then emitting startling quantities of the essence from his quid into their optics. He has Russ Hall, the champion expectorator of the west, faded and beaten into a pulp. He is now practicing on the stray poultry that roam about town by enticing them by means of dainty morsels and then spreading his consternation among them. Success to the successful spitter.

FOR SALE—Cheap, one work horse, weight 1,100, age 9 years. H. S. Reed, Redmond.

Rev. Herrin preached at Avondale last Sunday morning and at Redmond in the evening. There will be services at the church at 8 p. m. as well as 3 p. m. hereafter on Sunday.

Mrs. Ethel Pollard of Clear Lake visited her sister, Mrs. Frank Lall, here over Sunday and Mrs. Lall accompanied her home for a two weeks' stay.

The Campbell Lumber Co. have extended their railroad by means of a spur to the camp of the Redmond Lumber Co.

The Ohio Mill Co. was compelled to close down last Friday indefinitely on account of breakage in machinery.

The Sunday school is growing nicely, and the interest and attendance are growing each week. Last Sabbath fifty-three were at the school. Let all remember the hour, 2:30 p. m., and come.

It is now expected that the Rev. J. M. Weaver of Auburn, who preached here at one time, will be present to preach and conduct the services at the church next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the place of the pastor, who expects to be absent.

The New Farmer.

The President's address last month at the Michigan State Agricultural College is so clear an expression of the conditions of modern farm life that a future historian may turn to it to read our times. All national leaders have told us that the farmer is the backbone of the nation. Washington and Jefferson were farmers, and good ones. The Illinois that bred Lincoln was one vast farm—Chicago was then only a small town. The President of to-day, not bred in farm life, although he has been a practical ranchman, is the first to express the unity between farm labor and all other kinds. The farmer to him is an expert mechanic and business man, whose problems are precisely those of the workman in the town, who depends for success on industrial and social co-operation. He must be an educated, aggressive participant in the work of life, competing with the farmer of Europe, inviting to his workshop of many acres the most skilled young men, learning from technical students and the practical experience of his neighbors the best that is known about his business. City workers, meeting in the friction of crowded life, have always learned their craft from one another. The farmer has until recently been in social and business isolation. Now he is a citizen of the world, often closer in point of time, to the nearest city than his grandfather was to the farmers of the adjacent town. The difference between the townsman and the countryman in educational and intellectual opportunities and in industrial responsibility is rapidly diminishing. That means the diminishing of the old real or fancied disadvantage of farm life which drove ambition and initiative to the city for opportunity to show themselves. The advantage remains and increases, for no matter how near together modern instruments of unity, the trolley and telephone, bring city and country, broad acres still remain broad, and produce the conditions of free and independent life.—Youth's Companion.

Weed Cutter and Gatherer.

Weeds are a constant source of trouble to the gardener, cropping up quicker than he can cut them down, and spoiling the appearance of the lawn. A Massachusetts man has invented an implement intended to help him solve the problem and lighten the labor of stopping and digging up the roots.

NEW WEED CUTTER It is a combined weed cutter and gatherer, as shown in the accompanying illustration. The cutter is adjustable, and is operated by a lever which terminates close to the handle of the implement. The gatherer is placed in the rear of the cutter. In front of the cutter are a pair of small, light wheels. It will be seen that after bringing the implement close to the weed a pull on the lever is all that is required to operate the cutter. As the implement is pushed on to the next spot, the weed is gathered up by the rake and carried on.

The Best Hog to Raise.

It is not the large hog that pays, but the one that makes the largest quantity of pork in the shortest time and on the smallest amount of food. If a pig comes in during April he has nearly nine months during which to grow by the end of the year. If he is well bred, and from a good stock of hogs, he should easily be made to weigh 250 pounds during the nine months of his life.

Buckwheat is a profitable crop and thrives on sandy soil. It is what may be termed a summer grain crop, as the seed may be broadcasted in June and the crop harvested before frost. It is grown as a green manure crop, or for the grain. It provides an abundant forage for bees when in blossom, though some do not claim the honey therefrom to be of the highest quality. Being of rapid growth, buckwheat crowds the weeds and prevents them from growing, and as it shades the soil it is regarded as one of the best crops that can be grown for that purpose.

To Destroy Insects.

The grayish black squash bug is difficult to manage. Gathering the eggs and the old bugs early in the spring is laborious but sure, if thoroughly done. The bugs will crawl upon a piece of board laid among the vines, and may be gathered and caught. The use of poisons will do no good in the case of the bugs, as they do not eat the leaves, but pass their beaks through the outside of the leaf to suck the juices, and will not consume any of the poison. In a series of experiments in the method of preventing the attacks of the squash vine borer the preventatives employed were paris green at the rate of half a teaspoonful to two gallons of water, corn-cobs dipped in coal tar, and the kerosene emulsion; the application of the paris green and the kerosene was repeated after every hard rain until September; the cobs were dipped in coal tar again once in three weeks. All three of the applications seemed to be beneficial, with perhaps a little something in favor of the corn-cobs as being cheapest and most convenient. The odor of the tar has no effect on the insects, but sometimes repels the moth, causing her to lay her eggs elsewhere.

To Give Pigs a Bath.

The unfortunate pig has always had the reputation of being the most uncleanly animal in existence. This is not entirely the fault of the pig, as his environment is generally accountable for his cleanliness. Pig raisers seldom attempt to give the pigs a bath, as it is almost impossible to catch and hold them, even for a minute. Nevertheless a Missouri stockman tackled the problem and succeeded in planning an apparatus by which the pigs are given a good washing before they are slaughtered. It should also prove equally as useful at other times. The construction and operation of the dipping tank, as it is called, will be plainly evident by a glance at the accompanying illustration. Resting on the ground is the water tank, which is connected to an inclined inlet and outlet. On the incline of the outlet are tiny stairs to assist the pig in ascending. In preparation for his "annual" the pig is forced down the incline into the water, and if his common sense does not direct him on the incline, he is prodded from behind with a bar. In fact, in time this device may become very fashionable with pigs, and it would not be surprising to hear of them taking their daily "dip" hereafter.

Testing Dairy Cows.

The Illinois station publishes a circular which emphasizes the importance of studying the production of individual cows, and contains records for one year of eighteen dairy herds in Illinois, including 221 cows.

The average year production was 5,619.99 pounds of milk and 226.63 pounds of butterfat.

The best herd averaged 350.17 pounds of butterfat and the poorest 142.05 pounds.

The best ten cows averaged 388.75 pounds of butterfat and the poorest ten 109.42 pounds.

It is believed that at least one-third of the cows in the ordinary herds are practically unprofitable.

A marked improvement was observed in herds where grading had been practiced.

It was found possible to remove five cows from a herd of ten and thereby increase the profit $7.62 per head.

Care of the Hedge.

When the hedge plants begin to die out the cause may sometimes be traced to lack of plant food. There is considerable wood removed from hedge plants every year when the hedges are trimmed, and this annual loss cannot be sustained by the plants unless they are assisted. Apply wood ashes freely every fall.

"Wild silk."

Among the peculiar products of Manchuria, which are becoming better known to the outside world since the opening of that country, is "wild silk," produced by an insect named Antheraea pernyi, which lives upon the Mongolian oak leaves in southeastern Manchuria. The annual production for a few years past is estimated at 15,000,000 cocoons. In Shantung this silk is manufactured into pongee.

The Belgians as potato eaters far outstrip the Irish.

AUTHOR OF FAMOUS HYMN.

There is a Happy Land, May Be Honored by a Monument.

There was a time when every good boy and girl in the English-speaking world could sing "There is a Happy Land." It was the most popular of all hymns until "John Brown's Body" was written, and it shared with that history-making lyric the foremost place in the affection of the American armies. Indeed, it had a wider popularity than John Brown, for southern men as well as northern sang it. It is still world-wide in its popularity. It has been translated into every known language, including Volapuk and Esperanto, and into many that are unknown excepting to missionaries and their clients. No Sunday passes in any nook or corner of this well-trodden globe where men of our wandering race do not assemble and meet together without the blending of some children's voices somewhere in the simple words and the sing-song tune:

There is a happy land
Far, far away.
Where saints in glory stand,
Bright, bright as day;
Oh, how they sweetly sing,
"Worthy is our Saviour King,"
Loud let His praises ring,
Praise, praise for aye.

Come to this happy land,
Come, come away;
Why will ye doubting stand,
Why still delay?
Oh, we shall happy be
When from sin and sorrow free,
Lord, we shall live with Thee,
Blest, blest for aye.

Bright in that happy land
Beams every eye;
Kept by a Father's hand,
Love cannot die;
On then, to glory run;
Be a crown and kingdom won;
And bright above the sun,
Reign, reign for aye.

There is talk and there is prospect of a general international subscription among the Sunday school children of the world to build a monument to Andrew Young, the man who wrote "The Happy Land," and, it is believed, composed the air.

He died recently in poverty and obscurity, and he is buried in Scotland, not far from the grave of Robert Burns. It seems to be the fate of the "Bohemian" Scot to be starved to death—and to have a monument built for him. Edinburgh bristles with such shameful reminders of civilization's weak point.

Young was a librarian of the Philosophical Institution at one time. Long before that he was a preceptor in the Madras College, Saint Andrews; but it is as a plain dominie, teaching in the parish schools, that he is best remembered.

Sign of the Three Balls.

The origin of the pawnbrokers' sign, the three golden balls, is accounted for by humor, legend and fact. Some early English wit said the chances were two to one that the articles pledged would never be redeemed. On the other hand, they are ascribed to the good St. Nicholas.

A nobleman, so the story goes, suddenly becoming poor, found himself unable to provide for the marriage of his three daughters. The news of his sad plight came to the ears of the saintly bishop, who immediately came to the rescue by placing three bags of gold in the nobleman's window at night, each bag containing a sufficient dowry for one maiden. The three purses accordingly became the emblem of St. Nicholas, and when the bankers of northern Italy took up the business of lending money they appropriated it, considering themselves good followers of the generous saint.

The fact, however, seems to be that the three balls were taken from the lower part of the coat of arms of the dukes of Medici, from whose dominions the first money lenders emigrated to England. This explains why some of the ancient pawnbrokers used five blue balls, for the coat of arms in heraldic language is described as five bezants assure.

Weather and Mentality.

Everybody probably feels that his or her mental condition depends, to some extent upon the character of the weather. In gloomy weather we are, of course, apt to be depressed, and in fair weather exhilarated. When the atmosphere is stimulating the mental and physical energies are enhanced.

Starting from these generally recognized facts, a well known scientist at Washington has made a study of the effects of the weather on the human conduct, the results of which are rather surprising. He shows, by a system of tabulation, that misdemeanors involving violence, such as assaults, are more common in bright weather, and that the same is true of suicides. On the other hand, mental errors, such as mistakes in bank figures, are more common in damp, rainy weather.

The scientist's inference is that the excess of energy produced by a bracing condition of the air is responsible for more violence than is the "ugly temper" caused by bad weather, because the latter, while lowering the spirits, diminishes the activity of men.

NORTH CAROLINA GOVERNOR TELLS WHAT HE WILL DO.

To Use Every Legal Effort to Compel Railroads to Obey
Rate Law—Plain Statement
Made to United States Court
Officials.

Raleigh, N. C., July 27.—Gov. Glenn has turned the tables on the Southern Railway and its supporters, the federal authorities, in the rate war being waged here. In a long conference with Assistant United States Attorney General Edward T. Sanford, acting as the personal representative of President Roosevelt, the governor absolutely and unequivocally rejected all the propositions for a compromise. Instead of displaying any fear or indication of altering his position in this matter, vital not only to the people of this Southern state and indirectly to the people of the whole country, he showed evidence of the great determination of character for had title to lots 1 to 11 inclusive, Mercer's addition, direct from the patentee of the land, and that he was entitled to the shoreline seven feet below the present high water line. It was alleged that he had paid taxes on the land for many years, and that a portion of the land had been sold for delinquent taxes; that he had placed $12,000 worth of improvements on the lots, which were used for commercial purposes.

This is the third case in which the state has won on its contentions in federal and superior courts. Interest attaches to the suits because of the fact that the litigation directly involves the appropriations made by the last legislature for the new buildings to be erected for the University of Washington and the state exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

Latin America will supply two, and the remaining five will be sent from other countries represented in the peace conference. It is further understood that if the American proposal regarding the establishment of a permanent court of arbitration is adopted, and this seems most likely, the judges of the arbitration court will be

Is Pe-ru-na Useful for Catarrh?

Should a list of the ingredients of Peruna be submitted to any medical expert, of whatever school or nationality, he would be obliged to admit without reserve that each one of them was of undoubted value in chronic catarrhal diseases, and had stood the test of many years' experience in the treatment of such diseases. THERE CAN BE NO DISPUTE ABOUT THIS WHAT-EVER. Peruna is composed of the most efficacious and universally used herbal remedies for catarrh. Every ingredient of Peruna has a reputation of its own in the cure of some phase of catarrh.

Peruna brings to the home the COMBINED KNOWLEDGE OF SEVERAL SCHOOLS OF MEDICINE in the treatment of catarrhal diseases; brings to the home the scientific skill and knowledge of the modern pharmacist; and last but not least, brings to the home the vast and varied experience of Dr. Hartman, in the use of catarrh remedies, and in the treatment of catarrhal diseases.

The fact is, chronic catarrh is a disease which is very prevalent. Many thousand people know they have chronic catarrh. They have visited doctors over and over again, and been told that their case is one of chronic catarrh. It may be of the nose, throat, lungs, stomach or some other internal organ. There is no doubt as to the nature of the disease. The only trouble is the remedy. This doctor has tried to cure them. That doctor has tried to prescribe for them.

BUT THEY ALL FAILED TO BRING ANY RELIEF.

Dr. Hartman's idea is that a catarrh remedy can be made on a large scale, as he is making it; that it can be made honestly, of the purest drugs and of the strictest uniformity. His idea is that this remedy can be supplied directly to the people, and no more be charged for it than is necessary for the handling of it.

No other household remedy so universally advertised carries upon the label the principal active constituents, showing that Peruna invites the full inspection of the critics.

With which eye do you wink? This is a question which Sir Thomas Crichton-Browne of London has asked in a circular sent out to many hundred persons in an effort to learn whether amblyopia is prevalent. Sir James announced the other day that about sixty per cent of the replies were from persons who can wink with the left eye only, thirty per cent from those who can wink with either eye, and nine per cent from those who cannot wink at all. This is printed purely as a matter of scientific information, for it is written that "a naughty person... winketh with his eyes."

I took a large spider from his web under the basement of a mill, put him on a chip of wood, and set him adrift on the quiet waters of the pond. He immediately began to cast a web for the shore. He threw it as far as possible in the air with the wind. It soon reached the shore and made fast to the spires of grass. Then he turned himself about and in true sailor fashion began to haul in hand over hand his cable. Carefully he drew upon it until his bark began to move toward shore.

As it moved the faster he the faster drew upon it to keep his hawser taut, and from touching the water. Soon he reached the shore and quickly sped his way homeward. I tried several spiders and they all came to shore in like manner.

I called a kitten that sprang from her basket where she had been lying with her mother, and it followed me into the next room. The cat followed, and, taking it up by the neck, replaced it in the basket. Again I called the kitten and again it came at my call. Again the mother followed us, but this time she seized the kitten by the tail instead of the neck, evidently as a punishment, and pulled it roughly along, the kitten mewing helplessly.

For a third time I called, and once more the kitten came to me, but this time the mother took up the kitten, dragged it off, and then began to bite it again and again in order to secure its obedience. This method was successful, and the next time I called it was in vain.

The baker left some rolls on the back porch early each morning and for some time there had been two or three missing. The baker insisted that he always left the same number, and it was a mystery who or what took them. Mac, the colle, was thought to be above suspicion.

One day, however, my cousin, sitting at a window, saw Mac enter the front gate, followed by several dogs, and, fearing they might injure her garden, she went out. There she beheld Mac digging up a number of the lost rolls, and, more amazing still, he sat by and watched his friends devour them, and was evidently pleased and satisfied with the results of his charitable act.

The overcrowding of the medical profession is causing discussion in France. The superfluity of doctors is in the large towns, while the rural districts are ill supplied. The influx of foreigners plays a part. According to some authorities the medical schools are careless about the qualifications required of those who apply for admission and are too ready to recognize the diplomas of foreigners. Many of these matriculated have never studied French. Moreover, the number of patients who call for treatment by regular practitioners is diminishing on account of improved hygienic conditions.

IS THERE INSANITY?

Absolute Sanity Declared by Expert Not to Exist.

Anglo-Saxons are so prone to take common-sense views of things that they seldom realize the full force of the familiar saying that all men have some form of madness in them, says Current Literature. The second inference is, as is pointed out by Dr. G. H. Savage, the eminent English alienist, in a recent Lancet paper, that perfect sanity would be not only undesirable in itself, but from a strictly scientific point of view impossible. For a perfectly sane person—were such a thing thinkable—would be dull and uninteresting—a mediocrity, a nonentity. The point to seize, however, as Dr. Savage impresses upon us, is that there can be no comprehensive idea or definition of insanity, because the thing does not really exist. No scientist can set up any standard of rationality departure from which would comprise or denote insanity. One can diagnose a case of typhoid because it is a continued fever characterized by a peculiar course of the temperature, by marked abdominal symptoms, by an eruption upon the skin. But there is nothing in what goes by the name of insanity to further a diagnosis as that term is understood by medical men generally. Some treatises upon insanity prove nothing at all by proving too much, for they make whole nations insane at once. Physicians connected with insanity, as Dr. Savage argues, resemble gardeners rather than botanists. "We classify for convenience rather than upon a scientific basis, because, in point of fact, no such basis or finality of mode has as yet been discovered."

Perhaps, adds Dr. Savage, there is no need to wonder at this, since many have to be treated as lunatics whose brains and nervous systems show no change whatever from the normal course of what is recognized as sanity. Unfortunately, the impulse to define and classify sometimes leads to misinterpretation of a deplorable kind. Such, for example, is the false view, as Dr. Savage deems it, that every person of unsound mind is a lunatic. That, he says, is a "pseudo-legal" absurdity. "Obviously there are many persons of unsound mind who are neither dangerous to themselves nor to others—why, therefore, regard them as aliens?" The true difficulty, insists this distinguished expert, is that the disease insanity does not exist. Yet one might almost conclude from the elaborate articles in our leading daily journals that such a thing as insanity is a definitely established scientific fact, that it is a malady as definite in its symptoms and origin as, say, cancer or tuberculosis.

ASTRONOMY FOR LANDSMEN.

How a Watch or Clock May Be Regulated by Observing a Star.

When some investigator makes the "discovery" that the points of the compass can be approximately determined by looking at the sun and using a watch to show the divisions of the plane it is apt to go the rounds of the press as something very peculiar. If this discoverer were sufficiently conversant with the principles of navigation to note for the public benefit that the running of a watch or clock may be regulated by observing a star he might confer some practical benefit. This is a very simple thing to do and might be of great use in a country place where accurate time is not always obtainable, but all that is necessary is a fixed location on the earth's surface and any old thing in the way of a timepiece.

Choose a south window from which any other fixed point comparatively near and high, such as a chimney, side of a building, etc., may be seen. To the side of a window fasten a piece of card having a small hole in it, so that by looking through the hole with one eye toward the edge of the elevated object some fixed star may be seen. Watch the progress of the star, and the instant it vanishes behind the fixed point the observer must note the exact time is disappears. Watch the same star the following night, and it will vanish behind the same object just three minutes and fifty-six seconds sooner. If the timepiece marks 9 o'clock when the star disappears one night it should indicate three minutes and fifty-six seconds less than 9 the following night. If several cloudy nights occur together, follow the first observation and deduct the product from clock time to find the time the star will pass.—Marine Journal.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON NO LIMIT TO ITS POWERS FOR EVIL

Contagious Blood Poison has brought more suffering, misery and humiliation into the world than all other diseases combined; there is hardly any limit to its powers for evil. It is the blackest and vilest of all disorders, wrecking the lives of those unfortunate enough to contract it and often being transmitted to innocent offspring, a blighting legacy of suffering and shame. So highly contagious is the trouble that innocent persons may contract it by using the same table ware, toilet articles or clothing of one in whose blood the treacherous virus has taken root. Not only is it a powerful poison but a very deceptive one. Only those who have learned by bitter experience know by the little sore or ulcer, which usually makes its appearance first, of the suffering which is to follow. It comes in the form of ulcerated mouth and throat, unsightly copper colored spots, swollen glands in the groin, falling hair, offensive sores and ulcers on the body, and in severe cases the finger nails drop off, the bones become diseased, the nervous system is shattered and the sufferer becomes an object of pity to his fellow man. Especially is the treacherous nature of Contagious Blood Poison, shown when the infected person endeavors to combat the poison with mercury and potash. These minerals will drive away all outward symptoms of the troubles for a while, and the victim is deceived into the belief that he is cured. When, however, the treatment is left off he finds that the poison has only been driven deeper into the blood and the disease reappears, and usually in worse form because these strong minerals have not only failed to remove the virus from the blood but have weakened the entire system because of their destructive action. S. S. S. is the only real and certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It is made of a combination of healing blood-purifying roots, herbs and barks, the best in Nature's great laboratory of forest and field. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that S. S. S. contains a particle of mineral in any form. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble and by cleansing the blood of every particle of the virus and adding rich, healthful qualities to this vital fluid, forever cures this powerful disorder. So thoroughly does S. S. S. cleanse the circulation that no signs of the disease are ever seen again, and offspring is protected.

POST CARD CAMPAIGN TO URGE THIRD TERM

New York, July 25.—From all parts of the country, President Roosevelt has, during the last few days, received postal cards urging him to reconsider his declaration of 1904 and accept another nomination for the presidency. They are rather elaborately printed, containing a picture of the White House, under which is the inscription, "Uncle Sam will renew the lease."

Bellingham, July 27.—Cedar logs are scarce, according to the report of the mill men on the bay and are bringing from $1 to $2 a thousand more than a few weeks ago. HAYWOOD IS FREED OF MURDER CHARGE

Unbelief of Orchard and Judge Wood's Instructions Said to Be Responsible.

Boise, Idaho, July 28.—Into the bright sunlight of a Sabbath morning, into the stillness of a city drowsy with the lazy slumber of a summer Sunday, William D. Haywood, the defendant in one of the most noted trials involving conspiracy and murder ever known, walked today a free man, acquitted of the murder of former Governor Frank Steunenberg.

The probability of a verdict of acquittal in the case of the secretary-treasurer and acknowledged leader of the Western Federation of Miners had been freely predicted since yesterday, when Judge Fremont Wood read his charge, which was regarded as strongly favoring the defense in its interpretation of the laws of conspiracy, circumstantial evidence and the corroboration of an accomplice who confesses.

It was also freely predicted that in the event of Haywood's acquittal the state would abandon the prosecution of his associates, Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, and George A. Pettibone, of Denver.

Will Prosecute Others

Statements from counsel and from Gov. Gooding issued during the day, dispel this view of the situation. Gov. Gooding said:

"The verdict is a great surprise to me, and I believe to all the citizens of Idaho who have followed the case.

"I have done my duty. I have no regrets as to any action I have taken, and my conscience is clear. As long as God gives me strength I shall continue my efforts for government by law and for organized society.

"The state will continue a vigorous prosecution of Moyer and Pettibone and Adams and Simpson when apprehended. There will be neither hesitation nor retreat."

Application will be made to Judge Wood tomorrow morning to admit Moyer and Pettibone to bail, and it was said tonight that in the case of Moyer, against whom the state is admitted to have its weakest case, a favorable consideration would not be unexpected.

Not the least interesting of the comments made upon the verdict was that of Harry Orchard, the self-confessed murderer of Gov. Steunenberg and the witness upon whom the state relied to prove its claim of a sinister conspiracy against the Western Federation of Miners. When told at the state penitentiary that Haywood had been acquitted, Orchard said:

Orchard Is Resigned

"Well, I have done my duty. I have told the truth. I could do no more. I am ready to take any punishment that may be meted out to me for my crime, and the sooner it comes the better."

It was after being out twenty-one hours that the jury, which at first had been divided eight to four, and then seemed deadlocked at ten to two, finally came to an agreement shortly after the first faint streaks of the coming day showed gray against the giant hills which wall Boise to the north and east. The weary, snow-bearded bailiff who had kept an allnight vigil before the jury room was started into action by an imperative knock from within. Events moved rapidly enough after this, and when at last the principal actors in the trial had been gathered into the court room at a few minutes before eight o'clock the white envelope handed by the foreman of the jury to the judge was torn open and the verdict was read.

It came as an electric thrill to the prisoner, to his counsel, attorneys for the state and the small group of newspaper men and court officials who had been summoned from beds but lately sought or from offices where sleepless waiting had marked the night.

Haywood Sheds Tears

Tears welled to the eyes of the man who during the eighty days of his trial had sat with stolid indifference written upon his every feature—at last the icy armor he had thrown about himself with the first day of jury selection had been pierced and whatever of pent-up feeling had been contained within was loosened. Haywood's attorneys were fairly lifted from their seats, and Judge Wood made no effort to restrain them as they surrounded him to shake hands and shout aloud their congratulations. James M.

Hawley, leading counsel for the state, and O. M. Vanduy, the prosecuting attorney of the county in which former Gov. Steunenberg was assassinated, sat gloomy and unspeaking in their places. Senator Borah was not present.

Haywood Goes to See Mother

Haywood's first thought was of his aged mother, who on Saturday night had suffered a nervous breakdown after the jury had retired. As soon as he was released, Haywood walked to St. Luke's hospital and rushed into his mother's room. So great was the tonic upon the elderly lady that before night she was up and about and happy. Next Haywood went to the little cottage where his daughters have been stopping. Once home, Haywood said:

"I want to thank the people of Boise for their kindness to my wife, my mother, my family and my friends."

There has been widespread sympathy here for Mrs. Carruthers, the prisoner's mother.

Judge Settled Question

Inquiry among the jurors after their dismissal revealed some of the elements entering into their decision. Samuel D. Cilman, the last man to be won over by the defense, declared that a majority of the men seemed convinced that the general tone of the court's instructions indicated that the defendant should be freed. Finley McBean, who voted consistently for acquittal from the first, declared that the judge's instructions seemed to settle all doubt as to the course he should take.

Juror James Robertson, the good-natured Scotchman at whose house here Gov. Steunenberg boarded for more than two years, said:

"I could not reconcile myself to voting any other way than with the defense from the very first and I think that under the law and the evidence there was nothing else for us to do. The last fellow who held out against acquittal belongs to the same fraternal organization that I do. There was some talk of a compromise on a second degree verdict, but we would not stand for that—it either had to be acquittal or I would have staid there forever."

Attack on Orchard Did It

"There are many in Boise who incline to the opinion that a controlling influence with the jury was their misbelief of Orchard.

Judge Wood in his charge warned the jury to view Orchard's testimony with great caution and, as a test of the corroborating evidence, suggested that the story told by Orchard be set aside and the remainder of the evidence viewed in that light. It was not necessary, however, he added, that the corroborating evidence should prove every point.

ISTHMIAN CANAL REPORT SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS

Washington, July 25.—The detailed report of the isthman canal commission on the isthmus for June last has been received. The excavation in the Culebra division was 624,586 cubic yards, against 669,365 cubic yards during May, and is more than three times the amount taken out in June, 1906. The total working force on June 23 was 23,327.

The chief sanitary officer reports that out of 4,300 white American employees there were only four deaths during the month, and that out of 6,500 whites other than Americans there were but fifteen deaths. Out of about 29,000 colored employees there were seventy-two deaths, making a total of ninety-one deaths in June, as against ninety-six in May.

Eating Alaska Roasting Ears

Dawson, July 25.—Gus Johnson, proprietor of the Cascade laundry, has on exhibition the first full grown and matured roasting ears ever reported in Dawson. Johnson had a meal of the roasting ears this week from corn grown in his own gardens in the heart of Dawson. The corn was started in the hot house in March and was transplanted a few weeks later. The corn is of the early dwarf variety.

Twelve Good Men and True Reach No Verdict in Bribery Case.

San Francisco, July 29.—The jury in the case of Louis Glass, vice president and general manager of the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph Company, accused of having bribed Charles A. Bixton, a member of the board of supervisors, through the agency of Theodore A. Halsey, to withhold a franchise from a rival corporation, was unable to agree on a verdict and was discharged at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon after being out 48 hours.

The jury stood seven for conviction and five for acquittal. This was the result on the first ballot and subsequent ballots showed no change in sentiment. The prosecution announces that it will proceed with other indictments against Glass on a similar charge.

RAILROADS WILL YIELD TO POWER OF STATE

Raleigh, N. C., July 29.—The state of North Carolina has won its fight to have its passenger rate of 2¼ cents observed by all the railroads pending an appeal to the courts by the roads of the state which propose to fight the law.

The promise of obedience to the law by the Southern Railway and the Atlantic Coast Line Railway, which, since July 1, the date set for putting the rate law into effect, have been violating the law, was given yesterday afternoon at a conference of the railroad officials with Gov. Glenn, who had stated that as a precedent to any agreement he might make the 2¼ cent rate must first be put into effect. The conference was private.

Gov. Glenn last night gave out the following statement to the press regarding the outcome of the controversy:

"The governor considers the victory in the matter of the state against the railroads as one of state rights. The governor feels that it is a great step forward for state's rights and that if all the other states in the United States will continue the fight already begun in North Carolina and insist on their senators and representatives in congress trying to curtail the growing power of the federal courts, in future there will be no trouble to control and direct railroads and other corporations."

EDITORS OF STATE ELECT OFFICERS

Everett, July 27.—The officers of the State Press Association were elected this afternoon and Vancouver was chosen as the next place of meeting. The officers are as follows:

President, J. B. Best, Everett; first vice president, J. A. Hazeltine, South Bend; second vice president, Albert Johnson, Seattle; secretary, Frank Middaugh, Spokane; treasurer, Frank B. Cole, Tacoma; historian, E. C. Kibbe, Elma; poet, Homer Wilhelm, Seattle; orator, Thomas Hooker, Spokane; executive committee, E. E. Beard, Vancouver; J. A. Swett, Sultan; D. L. Gillespie, Brewster; Dan Bush, Chehalis; G. E. Kellogg, Olympia; delegates to national convention at St. Paul, A. Steel, J. A. Sivert, G. E. Kellogg, Fred Ornes, Orno Strong, F. E. Teck, F. B. Cole, C. W. Gorham, Lovett M. Wood, John L. Wilson.

The banquet given at Fraternal hall in the evening was the finest spread ever given here. Speeches were made by Senator Piles, Gov. Mead, Congressman Jones and many others.

NO PAROLE FOR ANY CONVICTED MURDERER

Olympia, July 27.—That persons convicted of murder in any degree and not solely murder in the first degree are not entitled to parole and pardon under the indeterminate sentence law, and that the law does not affect the terms of the present inmates of the penitentiary, except that they are eligible to parole and pardon after having served the minimum sentence for the crime for which they were convicted, form two of the leading points ruled upon by Assistant Attorney General Falknor in an opinion answering a number of questions propounded by the state board of control.

Appointments Announced

Oyster Bay, July 29.—The following appointments have been announced by President Roosevelt: James G. Bailey, to be secretary of the legation at Copenhagen, Denmark; Norman Hutchinson, of California, to be secretary of legation and consul general to Roumania and Servia.

their wheels on the sidewalks. This week our attention has been called to the small boys who coast down Market night, endangering the lives or limbs of pedestrians and keeping the neigh-

not this matter be looked into?

We do not see how the new ferry can be finished by February 1, 1908, unless actual work is commenced pretty soon. The building of such a boat is a big undertaking, and the work should not be rushed. Two months have been unnecessarily lost already. How much more time is to be wasted?

John L. Wilson was present at the meeting of the State Press Association in Everett last week. He made two eloquent speeches, impressing the fact that he was out of politics, but was still working for the good of his country in every way possible and was ready to support for the senatorship any man who was worthy and fit, both personally and with his P-I. But it is very evident that if hard work will accomplish anything, John L. Wilson will get back into the senate. He wants the job, and he wants it bad. Will he get it? Well, let's wait and watch awhile.

That Idaho judge who, in a recent public utterance, denounced the United States constitution as against the interests of the working classes should be made an example of, and not only reduced to the ranks, but have his citizenship taken from him. The constitution has stood the tests of time. It is the soundest, fairest, best code that ever a nation was governed by. It seems incredible that a man who has been intrusted with such a high position as this judge holds should dare to thus express himself. He owes the people a public apology and should be made to make it through the press of the United States.

Never in the history of the country has a trial been watched more closely than that just completed in Idaho, when Haywood was acquitted of murder in the first degree, having been accused of conspiracy in the matter of the death of former Governor Steunenberg. Labor circles have watched the case with especial concern, involving as it did the honor of their tremendous institution. Now that they have been vindicated, what will be the effect? Will they become more arrogant and attempt greater things, or will the outcome of the trial have a quieting effect upon them? The Haywood affair has brought to the surface a condition of things within the labor unions that is to be deplored. It has opened the eyes even of many union men, the greater number of whom are clean and above intrigue and conspiracy. The result of this airing may be an improvement in the conditions existing. If so, the tragedy will have its compensations. But if the unionists take the stand that the law sympathizes with them and that they are immune from punishment, no matter how heinous their crimes, then heaven help the country!

County Commissioner Dan R. Abraham reports a very successful test in the oiling of county roads on the main trunk line extending for two miles south of Georgetown. This stretch of road is stated to have been rendered immune to dust through the spreading of fifty barrels of oil, at a cost of less than $100 a mile to the county. This dose is expected to last six months at least, and after the oil has been spread for a year or two it is thought that one application each year will be sufficient. The crude oil used contains about 40 per cent of asphalt, and this also will form a hard and impervious crust in the course of a few applications. The sprinkler used in the test was improvised by Commissioner Abraham out of an old cart that was bought second-hand. Three and one-half miles of road will be treated with oil by the end of August and another application may be made before the wet weather sets in. The oil used costs the county $1.15 per barrel. One horse is used and, together with the driver, does not create a very large expense. If this experiment is a success it would be an excellent thing to oil many other roads in King county. Those where the dust is deep would not be benefited by the application, as the oil would work down and the dust work up. But where the roads are well graveled the oil would be a perfect success, and would lengthen its life considerably, causing it to shed the water and remain hard during dry weather.

Mrs. Edna Kendall is visiting at the home of Reverend Richard Oates.

The rehearsals of "Uncle Josh" are progressing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles Caldwell are being congratulated upon the birth of their first child, little Miss Cecil Anna.

The musical cantata, "Red Riding Hood's Rescue," will be given on Friday evening, August 2. The preparations are nearly complete and it promises to be good. The admission fee is ten cents for those under twelve years of age and fifteen cents for those over twelve years of age.

Another camping party has been planned for this week. Several of the Bothell young people are planning to take the Pearson launch and camp in the vicinity of Kenmore. The party includes Mr. and Mrs. Henning Pearson, Misses Ida Johnston and Marie Pearson, Captain Charles Pearson and Mr. Albert Pearson.

Talking about camping reminds me. The crowd at Camp Cougar are certainly having the time of their lives. People that pass in launches, rowboats, air ships, balloons, etc., are greeted by the bugle call, and if they look toward the camp they are apt to see a merry party of young people waving dish-towels and other camp paraphernalia. When they get home you must be sure and ask Alberta about the gravy and Nellie about the cougars, and Agnes about the pancakes, and Alice about the fudge. And also ask Carl about the mosquitoes and Hanford about the bugler boy, and Ulrich about the fleeing guest, and John about those fish. And when you catch the crowd together ask them how they like eating at headquarters.

The original party consisted of Misses Nellie and Alberta Oates, Agnes Mohn and Alice Simonds, and Messrs. Carl Beckstrom, Hanford Mohn, Ulrich Beckstrom and John Beckstrom. The young people were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. James Hargus. Camp Cougar proved very popular among the young people here and elsewhere as is evidenced by the number of visitors at the camp. The young people met every boat and train and were escorting their guests either to the camp or the place from which they were to start for home most of the time. Among those that spent a day or such a matter at the camp are Misses Selma Beckstrom, Esther Mohn, Inga Beckstrom, Sarah Simonds, Julia Beckstrom and Mr. John Reitan, all of Bothell, and Messrs. John Kendall and Arnold Mohn, of Seattle.
