Memorial Day is one of the finest traditions at Lake Washington High School. It reminds us all of the exemplary life of our first great president, George Washington. It also rekindles the pride we have in our beautiful school. It is with a deep sense of loyalty, respect, and appreciation that the entire student body, led by an elected student council, prepared for Memorial Lane each year and planted another cherry tree.

The idea of Memorial Day was originated by Mrs. Mary McKinley, who died on December 2, 1945. She, with three student representatives, was invited to witness the ceremonies of Lincoln High School’s ‘T’ Day. They were so favorably impressed that they adopted the idea for making plans for Lake Washington’s first Memorial Day.

This Friday we will celebrate with an assembly, the electrical display, lunch in Memorial Lane, and the planting of the fourth cherry tree.

May the recollection of this day and every future Memorial Day stay with us and help us to appreciate and uphold all the finer things in life.

To Queries Concerning College Plans

Principal Shovlin Supplies Answers To Questions Concerning College Plans

With commencement and then college just around the corner—seniors are seeing answers to questions concerning college plans.

Principal Dan Shovlin gives answers here to some often-asked queries.

Do you have to take entrance exams? What is this College Entrance Board Exam I've heard about?

The only college in this state requiring a College Entrance Examination is Whitman. Whitman has not set up minimum standards of achievement in the test to determine entrance requirements but does use the test score along with several other factors.

The College Entrance Board Exam is a college aptitude test set up by a group of people chosen by various colleges in the United States. This test must be taken before admission is granted to some colleges. Most of the colleges requiring this are located in the eastern part of the United States.

Generally speaking the colleges in Washington admit students if they have a grade average of C or better, are high school graduates and are recommended by the principal of the high school.

I'm worried about dumbell English. Will I have to take it? I'm not a very good speller, but I write pretty good themes. The University of Washington gives an English placement test to all entering freshmen. The test is concerned with a large extent with spelling, vocabulary and punctuation. Students scoring very low on the test are assigned to special English courses. This is sometimes known as "dumbell English." Unfortunately, the placement test gives little recognition to the ability of the student to express himself in written form, of course, should be one of the major goals of any English program.

I don't know what I want to major in. How do I decide by next fall?

I'm not able to select a major before college entrance. The first year or two in most colleges is devoted to a general education that provides the foundation for any specialized training. If undecided about what to major in, a student may enroll as a pre-major, then decide later on what his major will be.

What can I do this semester to help me in establishing good study habits?

The development of good study habits is concerned with a large extent by maintaining good health. Plenty of rest, a well-balanced diet, the law in the light of the exercise are factors in maintaining good health and should be regarded as essential to the most efficient studying.

Thorough planning is important. Analyze the jobs to be done. Put first things first. Allow yourself enough time to do a better job. But in other words, don't set your plans so high you can't do a job. Pace yourself. Work regularly each day. You will do a better job working an hour each day for ten days on the assignment than you will do working ten hours in one day.

Study with a purpose. Ask yourself each day what you expect to achieve the class. What will I learn today? As you leave the class ask yourself, What have I learned today?

Be sure to understand assignments. Determine the purpose of the assignment and work toward that end.

Although her mind must be twitching with thousands of details, Roberta Ellison meets emergencies with poise and dignity. She holds a part-time job, working as cashier at the Gateway theater in Kirkland.

Despite all her extra activities, Roberta has been able to maintain a 3.7 grade average. She's such a little girl; how does she do it?

Roberta's future plans are to attend college this fall and major in business administration and minor in journalism.

Cadet Janet Sandall

Trains In Spokane

JANET SANDALL, 19, attending Washington State College, reported for cadet education training in Spokane February 2, where she will spend half a semester learning actual classroom experience under direction of regular teachers. She will return to W.S.C. March 27.

Neva Johnson, 19, also taking cadet training at Western Washington College of Education, has earned fame as marathon eater by accepting the challenge of consuming the following meals in two hours, half a serving of shrimp salad; nine biscuits; three glasses of milk and cup of coffee; two and one-half dozen cookies; and last, but not least, five dill pickles for dessert.

Paul Fletcher, 19, transferred from the University of Washington to Everett Junior College where he is taking preliminary engineering courses.

Bennie Kerwin, 22, was married January 17 to Joseph O'Brien of Renton. They will reside in Renton.

Mike Green is well-occupied too, what with driving the ambulance for his father and working 30 hours a week at Colman's Pharmacy. Other very desirable positions are not exactly "grapy," yet Mike always wears that relaxed, even-wo­ry-about-a-thing look!

One of Mike's extra-curricular responsibilities at the present is being chairman of Memory Day which will be held February 20.

He is also sports editor of the World. On the Reveille adver­tising staff, and a member of Knights of Axe.

During his spare time, if any, Mike likes to travel around. His favorite hobbies are going on ambulance calls and doing camera work.

After he graduates he hopes to attend Washington State Col­lege and major in pharmacy.

CAMP COLUMBIA

Begins New Trend

In Boy's Home

The story of Camp Columbia, began two years ago when the Blakes took in three youngsters. They now have twenty-three on the farm. They came by a number of paths, some being assigned there by the court or by a welfare agency, and others on their own accord, but they all get treated the same, no matter how they came.

As proof of the success of this house, no boy has ever run away. But there are no bars, no fences to keep the boys inside. They stay because they have found the home some of them have ever had.

Contributions to Camp Columbia are all that keep it going.
Spanish Club Has Social Gathering at Home of Ken Larson

The members of the Spanish club were recently invited to hold their meeting at the home of Ken Larson, superintendent. This was the second social gathering of the year.

During the meeting some of the members made recordings of songs and dialogues. One of the songs recorded was "LaCuacuna." The following students are committee members for this year: social committee, Violet Jackman, vice president; Ken Larson, secretary; transportation committee, Gary Farris; culture committee, Sandra Killian; magazine editor, Margarette Bernard, publicity; Arlene Baier; and bulletin chairman, James Martineau.

According to the social committee chairman, Violet Jackman, the next social meeting will probably be at the home of Panfilo Morelli, the club's vice president.

Thespians Attend Drama Conference

Thespians from Lake Washington attended the annual Drama Conference at the University of Washington last Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Marionne Cabo, chairman, was in attendance.

Those who went were Ralph Guenther, Peter Clark, Phyllis Packard, Barbara Smith, Barbara Brudshaw, and Mrs. Cabo.

The drama conference is a district conference for amateurs, professional, or school theaters.

They went to the University playground Friday afternoon to look at demonstrations on projected scenery and lighting.

"Projected scenery and lighting will be used for the Blackhawk of 33," explained Mrs. Cabo. They went on a tour of KING television and radio on Saturday.

Two representatives went to each of the three theaters, the Showbox, Penthouse, and the University Theater, owned and operated by the University of Washington.

Office Practice Class Has Guest Speaker

Wilma A. Linscher from the Seattle district of the Comptometer School, spoke to the office practice classes last week on the course and the salaries. It was also explained to classes how long it would take to go to school in Seattle.

Mrs. Linscher explained that if a person received a diploma from the school that it was good all over the United States, if a person wanted a job in another state, who are the best all-around students, socially and educationally, will be named to this honor.

Arlene Baier New Point Chairman

Arlene Baier, senior girl, was recently elected to fill the vacant spot of point manager for the Knights of Axx. She is replacing Marie Smith, who graduated in mid-term.

Arlene's job is to keep track of all the hours that the girls have earned during the football and basketball games, plus any other jobs that are asked to be done by the Knights of Axx.

Arlene competed against Phyllis Packard, who is also a senior.

Girls' Club Donates To Heights School

A check for $25 was presented to the Stewart Heights school by Shirley Frederick, Girls' club committee head, and Stephanie King, Girls' club treasurer, recently.

The school is for exceptional children—spastics or those otherwise handicapped.

The teacher who accepted the check was very pleased, the girls commented. She said the money would buy a movie screen to go with their new projector.

After a tour of the school both girls agreed it was one of the most heart-warming experiences they have known.

Washington State Employment Office Gives Aptitude Examinations To Seniors

Should our 1953 graduates dig ditches or clip coupons—slift feathers or dynamite mountains? The proper vocations will be determined by aptitude tests given by the Washington State Employment Office.

Any interested senior who plans to work for a period of six months or longer following graduation, is eligible for the tests, which are continued over a period of three weeks.

The results, according to Mr. Bently, a representative of the employment office, are valuable in determining the type of job for which one is best suited.

In a series of ten, different types of examinations are given each student to show his ability in various occupation. After the work is tabulated trained counselors interview each student and advise him as to the field in which his talents lie.

Questions about many occupations will be answered.

Senior's Underway Toward Graduation

The senior class of '53, in their annual Senior Ball held Saturday, February 7, transformed the high school cafeteria from 9 to 12. By Richard Pegg

You probably all know by now but this will refresh your memory. Last Sunday night, little Johnny O'Brien scored his 3000 collegiate basketball points, and before the evening was over he had marked up points on the score-board. Now remember Johnny is only 5' 9" tall, while every member of the opposing Gonzaga Bulldog team was six feet or better.

Johnny O'Brien should be chosen All-American. No, not just Little All-American, but a full-fledged, honest to goodness, genuine All-American, the same as Bob Houbregs. He scored 51 points against Gonzaga U. So what? Houbregs is 6' 10" especially All-American. He was lucky. Besides what's Gonzaga anyway?

Okay, you're right ... what's Gonzaga ... just a good little college basketball team. So are the majority of the other teams S.U.'s been playing, teams against which Johnny O'Brien has been running up 30 points a game. You say that's not tough competition, that doesn't rate him as an All-American? No . . . but he scored points against some pretty tough competition. You say that's not tough competition, that doesn't rate him?

Tell me why you consider the human bean-pole who is 6' 11" tall, such as Bevo Francis, to whom a team-mate who scores as many (or more) points, who has to jump, and drop it through the net, catch it with his other hand and fight, wiggle and squirm his way up and under the basket, to dump his points in, the greatest athlete, the real All-American?

Yes . . . Johnny O'Brien should be an All-American!

Kangaroos Tackle Bulldogs To End Season

Hoppers Try Hard, Lose To Bellevue

Five hard-driving Wolverines piled up the points just a little faster than the equally hard-driving Kangaroos in a cage match on the Bellevue maple court, Friday night and won, 65-55.

KangarooLead At Half
Spirits were high in the Hopper choosing section as the Kangs lead at the quarter and again at the half, 36-22.

However, with four fouls early in the second quarter Stan Tees- sem was forced to warm the bench and even though the Kangs found hard to hold their slim margin they were unable to as the game progressed.

This Man Ranks Up 15
With four personal fouls Tees- sem sat out most of the second and third quarters. However, it again late in the third quarter but was soon visiting the shower because of the very disputable foul.

Stan piled up 18 points in less than two quarters of actual play.

Housner, Court Win Inspirational Award

Ira Housner, senior, and Doug Court, sophomores, were recently chosen as winners of the P.I. 1952 Basketball Inspirational Award for the two people who contributed the most to the Lake Washing-ton Ski club.

They were elected on the basis of leadership, skiing ability, and enthusiasm for the club. On February 28 there will be a final test of award winners from all participating schools. The winners of this will go to Sun Valley.

The election was held February 7, which was Lake Washington's day at the summit, where school was held every Saturday throughout the season. Ira is the presi-dent of the ski club.

Foster Travel To Foster To Finish Kingco Hoop Season

Foster to the target, as the Lake Washington Kangaroos travel to the Bulldog maple court Friday night to engage in the last cage match of the year.

Both teams are trying to bounce back from defeats last week, the Kangs to Bellevue, the Bulldogs to Mt. Si.

Lake Washington and Foster are now tied for fourth place in the KINGCO standings. Winner of Friday's dust will finish the year in fourth, the loser in fifth.

Bellevue Confident

It looks like the Bellevue Wolverines have a berth in the District Tournament cinched as they take on lowly Issaquah, resting comfortably in the cellar with but one win, eight losses.

What team will accompany Bellevue to the District Tourna-ment? Mt. Si holds the second spot now, but the Bothell Cougars are breathing right down their neck and a win for the Cougars would result in a tie for the second.

Seniors Bow Out

Seniors Stan Teessem and Jerry Johansen, who play basketball as they play their last high school basketball game against the Bul-dogs.

Both Stan and Jerry have played outstandingly this year and will be greatly missed next season.

Students Express Opinions On Removal of American Blockade

The recent American blockade from the island of Formosa has caused much public comment. Lake Washington students expressed views as follows:

Bryce Young—That it's a good idea. If Chiang Kai-Shek moves his Nationalist troops into Communist China it may take the Communist soldiers out of Korea, or at least prevent any more from moving in.

Byron Lutterman—He has to start somewhere. Next I think he should follow it up with a blockade of Red China.

Diane Maki—General Eisenhower is a military man so he must know what he is doing. Otherwise he wouldn't have removed the blockade.

Ralph Gutzler—When Eisenhower removed the blockade in Formosa I think he did not the U.S. deeper into the war. If the Chinese Nationalists invade the China mainland the U.S. will have moved the blockade.

It will either draw the communists or be better than this so-called "police-action". Would be better than this so-called "police-action." He has to do something. Next I think he should give up his kindergartens or support from kindergartens. The step would require schools to house kindergartens and creating a state program to support from kindergartens. The two steps are the most promising young teachers graduating from Washington's colleges are accepting teaching corps and causing teachers to take kindergartens. The bills to reshuffle the state government are based on studies by the Committee on State Government Organization. They seek to create a new office of state agency, a central personnel agency and merit employment system, a department of natural resources, a department of business supervision and a revalued state education board.

The recent withdrawal of the American Blockade is during the 1950's, Mr. Archer told the government organization. They seek to make half a million children in the public comment. Lake Washington students expressed views as follows:

Bryce Young—That it's a good idea. If Chiang Kai-Shek moves his Nationalist troops into Communist China it may take the Communist soldiers out of Korea, or at least prevent any more from moving in.

Byron Lutterman—He has to start somewhere. Next I think he should follow it up with a blockade of Red China.

Diane Maki—General Eisenhower is a military man so he must know what he is doing. Otherwise he wouldn't have removed the blockade.

Ralph Gutzler—When Eisenhower removed the blockade in Formosa I think he did not the U.S. deeper into the war. If the Chinese Nationalists invade the China mainland the U.S. will have moved the blockade.

It will either draw the communists or be better than this so-called "police-action". Would be better than this so-called "police-action." He has to do something. Next I think he should give up his kindergartens or support from kindergartens. The step would require schools to house kindergartens and creating a state program to support from kindergartens. The two steps are the most promising young teachers graduating from Washington's colleges are accepting teaching corps and causing teachers to take kindergartens.
